Collins landed safely but was removed to the naval hospital suffering from severe shock.

The plane, which is said to have cost $100,000, was held up as the outstanding aviation development of the year. Details of its construction was scret. The Curtiss company worked a year in building it.

DR. A. D. JONES DIES

Last Rites To Be Held at Friendship Church.

Dr. A. D. Jones, one of the most widely known and respected colored citizens of Atlanta, died Saturday night at Spelman hospital after a brief illness. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

For many years, he had been in charge of the health department of Morehouse College, from which of Morehouse College, from which institution he was graduated in 1889 at the age of 17, one of the youngest men ever to be awarded a diploma from the college.

He came to Atlanta at the age of 13 on the death of his father. His mother became the servant of the late. The Henry Moderney preserves late Dr. Henry McDonough, pastor at that time of the Second Baptist church. Dr. McDonough took an interest in young Jones and influenced him to pursue his education. Following his graduation from Morehouse college, he went to Howard university in Washington, D. C. where he was graduated in medicine. He returned to Atlanta to practice and rapidly established himself as one of the most skilled colored physicians in the city.

Funeral services probably will held at Friendship Baptist church, ef which Dr. Jones was a member from childhood.

"The sooner home owners realize the economy of building for permanency. the sooner they will cease contributing to the large annual loss through rust.'

CRAM & FERGUSON ASSELLE

BY rust-proofing your home with materials of Copper, Brass and Bronze, you can save yourself from paying part of the staggering $600,000,000 annual rust loss sustained by the property owners of America. Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures cannot rust. They serve without repair or replacement for the life of the house.

Almost to a man the great architects of the country strongly recommend the use of these materials. Cram and Ferguson, the famous Boston firm, says:

"It has been the custom of this office for many years to specify Copper, Brass and Bronze wherever these metals could be advantageously used. They add little to the cost of even a small house."

If you are thinking of building or buying a home or remodeling your present one, insist on these rust-proof materials. Don't accept substitutes. Remember rust-resisting is not the same as rust-proof.

Considering their lifelong service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and

The pioneer, who brought his bride and a seven-week-old child west over the old Oregon trail by ox team in 1852, had intended to begin a second automobile tour of the trail when he was forced to enter the Detroit hospital in the first serious illness of his long and eventful life.

A son, Marion J. Meeker, and three daughters, Mrs. Carrie Osborne and Mrs. Roderick McDonald, of Peshastin, Wash., survive him.

Meeker was born at Huntsville, Ohio, on December 29, 1830. After a boyhood there and an apprenticeship in a printing office in Indianapolis, he married in 1851 and struck out by ox team for Iowa to homestead a farm. Three more accounts in the Union Bank and Trust company, raising the total deposited there under fictitious names to nearly $10,000,000, have been discovered by District Attorney Monaghan who is directing the grand jury investigation into bootlegging and police correntiation

The owners of the three new accounts, which aggregated $1,500,000, have been identified, the district attorney said. He said the accounts interweave closely with the 15 others which have been found but whose owners have not been discovered. All of the more than $9,000,000 was deposited in the bank within two years and all of it was withdrawn the latter part of 1927. Officials of the bank who were examined by the grand jury professed ignorance as to the dentity of the depositors. The district attorney said his inves-tigation this week would be directed along the trail of this money, which he believes to be the profits from bootlegging and gambling activities. He also tatends to go into the cases of a number of police officials and detectives whose personal wealth has not been satisfactorily explained.

Pittsburgh, December 3.—(P)—Pro-ibition enforcement claimed the at-ention of the sixty-fifth annual contions made by speakers was that purchasers of liquor be made equally guilty with sellers and that the wording of the Volstead act be changed to read "alcoholic" instead of "intoxication".

Louis E. Graham, legal adviser to John D. Pennington, federal prohibi-tion administrator for western Penn-Maryland, West Virginia and western Maryland, said the Volstead law "is a good law, but it could be improved by increasing penalties and requiring commercial alcohol to be denatured at the place of manufacture."

SERVICE OPPOSED

Representatives of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association and the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will appear before the state public service commission Wednesday to protest against a move to take off two passenger trains now in operation between Atlanta and Albany over the Central of Georgia railroad.

The two trains under discussion are No. 11 arriving in Atlanta at 10:45 a. m., and No. 12, leaving Atlanta at 4 o'clock, p. m. In addition to the Atlanta organizations there will be delegations from several towns and cities along the line who will appear before the commission to protest against the proposed discontinuance of the trains.

It was stated that the protest will be based on the ground that these trains are of vast service to people living along the line because they nlow travelers to make the trip to Atlanta and return the same day. The railroad company asserts that the trains are now operated at a heavy loss.

as to the activities of their respective departments for the year are automatically released.

No report is of more widespread interest than that of Secretary Jardine, of the department of agriculture. In the south two sections of his report are of peculiar interest. Outstanding, of course, is that relating to cotton production.

From this is gathered the unsatisfactory information that cotton was planted this year on about 46,- Howard Tate is no longer with us 700,000 acres, an increase of 11.4 per cent over the acreage planted last year. Losses from the boll weevil, however, were the heaviest, he declares, since the first few years after that pest spread through the cotton belt. Weather conditions were unfavorable for cotton. In consequence the cotton crop in October was estimated at less than 14,000,000 bales, compared with 17,977,000 bales in 1926.

Last year's small crop of 12,955,-000 bales was held down by acreage reduction, boll weevil damage, and the Mississippi floods.

Another fact the statement emphasizes is that farmers positively will not hold acreage down following a year of comparatively low acreage and good prices. It is almost unbelievable that this is true, as it is contrary to sound judgment, but it is nevertheless. The cotton planters of the southwest are more largely responsible for this situation than those of this section of the tress.

The other section of the report ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 4, 1928. that is of especial interest to Georgia and neighboring states is that relating to the satisfactory status of live stock growing and dairying. General improvement in the live stock industry, in which all its standing development in the 1928 agricultural situation.

Representative-elect Stone Suggests New Highway Plans

Editor Constitution: I am always nost interested in the various news the canceling of contracts and other delays to progress, which seem to re-sult from a lack of funds.

As a member of the general assem-As a member of the general assembly four years ago, I recall our big fight for submitting to the people the question of state highway bonds, also the funeral oration delivered by my good friend Pat Griffin, of Bainbridge, when he used my name as the secre-tary of our "steering committee" in connection with those final rites in advance of the defeat we suffered. I may not have changed front on sub-mitting the bond question to the peo-ple, but, in any event, I have tried to be a "good loser." These years have passed and some roads have been paved, but much money has been spent and many miles of Georgia roads re-main unpaved. County matching and county bonds based on local property values at high rates of interest is the alternative for the plan we proposed. Georgia has lost much time and gained much criticism since our "steering committee" was duly buried, but Pat and I remain good friends regardless.

This is no time for criticism, as I see it, but the demand for reorganization of plans, and the call from some be reached whereby results may be obtained as quickly as possible. Opinions differ on details, but we may all agree that more money is needed for road construction in Georgia. I have given some study to the plan recently proposed by Senator Myrick, of Savannah, for a state bond issue of $100,000,000-also to the plan advanced by others for an increase of the gasoline tax to 5 cents per gallon. A great many people seem to think that a bond commission would be essential for the proper handling of the increased funds to be derived from any possible issue of bonds for road Regardless of all else, in my opinion, we should think of Geor-gia in terms of 3,000,000 people, and their stake in the proper solution of this problem. There are thousands like him, doomed to white-collar poverty by America's unconfessed but nevertheless genuine dread of overalls. Opportunity to climb has made us a nation of snobs. The ambition to "be somebody" has taught us to look down on workers.

We pretend that isn't true, but it is true. We deny it because we are ashamed of it. There was a time when scorn of laborers was justified. They were unlettered and unwashed. They had little conception of honor. clergymen and the rich could read. There was no education for the masses, and the possession of knowledge was proof of gentility. And that suggests the remedy for our snobbishness. When all young men are college bred, thousands of them will be forced to accept overall White-collar jobs are relatively few. Minor Leagues Meet on First Day in Canada

Draft Question Looms as Likely Cause of Trouble at Ball Session.

BY BRIAN BELL. Associated Press Sports Writer.

Toronto, Ont., December 3 .- (A)-Three important minor leagues met in annual session today Ind although the club owners spent many hours in baseball discussions, apparently little ground was covered.

After the first session John Conway Toole was still president of the International league, although rumors had persisted that a movement would be launched to cut off his official head.

After the first meeting of the International Project P After the first meeting of the Interna-tional, President Toole was asked if the session was harmonious.

After the first meeting of the International, President Toole was asked it the session was harmonious.

Meeting Peaceful.

"Quite so," was his reply, "not a weapon was drawn."

Th: draft, the all-absorbing topic to feature the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs opening Wednesday, was discussed by the International clubs which voted to oppose any amendments to the present "modified draft," as it applies to class AA leagues. The American association did not announce the cansensus developed in its discussion. The Western league previously voted opposition to unrestricted draft.

The International league passed a resolution expressing regret at the illness of King George and hoped for his speedy return to health. The International also decided to open its season April 17 and close September 25, playing a schedule of 168 games. A schedule committee will be appointed the report from the south that the had signed "Bullet Joe" Bush, formange Atlanta next year, upon his arrival here for the annual professional baseball convention opening here on Wednesday.

Mr. Spiller smiled and said "fine." when asked what kind of a trip he had and added "No sir, you can put it down that we haven't signed Bush. It's the first I've heard of it here." Bert Niehoff, Atlanta ex-manager, will not arrive in the city until Tuesday morning.

"He remained in Detroit for the night," explained Mr. Spiller, who said that he hadn't any news, but might have some tomorrow. At present he wanted to get a room, settle down and enjoy himself in the Queen City before the baseball row starts.

As for the Army, Biff Jones had to have his team ready for a big battle the first week in October and keep it ready for the first day of December. Unsurpassed Brilliance Marks Ozburn-Candler Wedding

Unsurpassed brilliance marked the wedding ceremony of Miss Ruth Tolbert Ozburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alonzo Ozburn, and Charles Howard Candler, Jr., which was solemnized Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal church on Peachtree street before a fashionable and distinguished assemblage of Atlanta society. The marriage service was read by the Rev. N. R. High Moor, rector of the church, and was preceded by an appropriate musical program rendered by Hugh Hodgson on the organ. During the ceremony Mr. Hodgson played softly "One Alone" from "The Desert Song." Every light in the church was lowered during the reading of the ceremony, with the exception of the soft gleam from the altar candles shedding a radiance over the bride

THE YOUNG PRETENDERS By Alice Grant Rosman

Tessie Anstruther returned from her father's house at Brade to her mother's in London, found Hugo's liqueur set among other presents, and came to thank him in person. Tessie was six feet high and amazingly like her brother Bill, the father of Hugo II. She had the same square cut, ugly face which, attractive in Bill, became merely detrimental to the girl, who had been early condemned as an ugly duckling and had not enough feminine guile in her composition to turn her plainness into attraction. She and Bill were great friends and his departure for India had left her solitary, for her other brother, George, was a society man, and Tessie hated society with the terror of the shy weman who can never adorn it.

As Tessie, dressed in manly tweeds, a family skeleton, after a family skeleton af family skeleton af family skeleton.

"Didn't he?" asked Tessie. "I'm hanged if I know. I haven't seen a great deal of Paul since Bill and Alison were married, but I always liked him and it wouldn't make any difference to me whatever he did. The elders are all making a song about it and saying as usual that our generation hasn't any morals. Perhaps it hasn't, if they mean doing what your parents want you to do, whatever the consequences. I haven't much time for parents, myself."

"Later on I asked if he would give me away. He said, 'You shall have your choice, I'll give you away or I'll give you 500 pounds.' He was testing me and it got my back up. I didn't care by that time whether he gave me away or what he thought of me and I always had cared about going to Roland empty handed, so I said I'd take the five hundred."

"No, he wouldn't care." said Tessie
"George is an opportunist. If he had a family skeleton he'd only hang it up in the hall and use it as a new kind of dinner gong. He and mother are arranging the wedding between them. They like that sort of thing."
She was as detached about the wedding as though it belonged to somebody else. Hugo, remembering the sparkle and excitement of Alison before her marriage to Bill, felt that As Tessic, dressed in manly tweeds, came striding into Hugo's room, it struck that newly made critic of life that her marriage to his cousin Roland was appropriate in a topsy turvy fashion, for if Tessie ought to have been a man, the old ass had most certainly missed fire by not having been born a girl.

"I'm jolly glad you are coming into our family," he said, seeking for the only sincere method of congratulation he could find.

"You've come into mine, too," said Tessie. "Godfather to my nephew, aren't you? And Longht to hate you."

"You've come into mine, too," said Tessie. "Godfather to my nephew aren't you? And I ought to hate you, for if it had been a girl I was to have had the honor and glory."

"Never you mind." said Hugo, "think what a much better goddaughter you'll get now they've had a bit of practice. You know, I got the surprise of my life. It was decent of Bill and Alison."

"You always were a funny kid."

"In and he was indignant.

"Why do you let them, Tessie! It's your wedding."

"Yes. I know, but what does it matter? Tre grown to think that nothing matters very much."

"Look here, old thing." said Hugo, "I don't want to butt in, but aren't you afraid you might fall in love with some other fellow after you're married to Roland?"

"I don't believe in love. We're brought up to think of it as a kind."

"Think what a much better goddaughter you'll get now they've had a bit of practice. You know, I got the surprise of my life. It was decent of Bill and Alison."

"You always were a funny kid, Tessie said. "It was bound to be either you or Paul. George was never in the running. Bill and I always thought him too superior for words."

"O. I say, I hope I haven't pinched the little beggar from Paul," exclaimed Hugo.

"Good thing as it turned out, but you needn't worry. I had a lefter from Bill and he said they ruled Paul out long ago as too careless and too popular. Just as likely to mislay a godson as not, was how Bill put it, but he said you were a solitary sort of youngster yourself and you'd know what the little chap would feel like when they had to ship him off to school. Besides, I don't see why I shouldh't tell you when I've known you pretty well since you were born: we always agreed you were the best of the bunch." said Tessie with off-hand melancholy.

"That's a big 'un," accused Hugo, grateful but indignant. It was nice of old Tessie to come along with a tale like that to cheer a battered wreck, but she always had been kindhearted. "Why Paul was, everybody knew. And that reminds me; he didn't do it, so don't you believe them Tessie."

"Didn't he?" asked Tessie. "I'm hanged if I know. I haven't seen a great deal of Paul since Bill and Alison were married, but I always liked him and it wouldn't make any difference to me whatever he did. The elders are all making a song about it and saying as usual that our generation hasn't any morals. Do you mean to tell me a chap can't be friendly with a girl he has known all his life without people suspecting she's in love with him? In these days?"

But at this point the door opened, and Lady Donaldson came to carry Tessie away to luncheon.

Richmond, Va., December 3.—(P)— Dr. Edwin A. Dr. Hepburn told the governor that he believed drinking at the university had reached the proportions of a state scandal in asking the chief executive to request university authorities to grant federal prohibition agents "as uninterrupted access to the university three days for sentiment to crystalize to the point where it is recognized that a change has occurred. It was on Friday that the change started with the collapse of the mar-ket in Canadian Marconi. Subsequent developments influencing sentiment in-clude Friday's 10 per cent call money, the further large weekly inmoney, the further large weekly increase in brokers' loans, a sudden reversal of the international gold movement resulting in the loss by this country of all of the gold gained this autumn, the week-end federal reserve system statement showing the lowest reserve ration since 1921.

The net result of the foregoing sudden and unexpected news developed an accumulation over the week-

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,

Associated Press Market Editor. Chicago, December 3.—(P)—Lively selling of future deliveries of wheat took place today at the last on account of decided enlargement of the United States wheat visible supply. As a consequence, the finish of trading in wheat was irregular, with earlier gains more than offset. World shipments of 21,933,000 bushels of wheat for the week set a new top whent for the week sct a new top record.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 3-8@1-2c net lower to 1-8@ 1-4c advance, with corn 3-8c to 3-4c up, oats showing 1-2@5-8c to 3-4c gain, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15c.

Increased by 2.168.000 bushels to setback of 15c.

Increased by 2,168,000 bushels today, the domestic wheat visible supply totaled 136,777,000 bushels, as against 19,036,000 bushels a year ago. The bearish showing was emphasized, too, by talk of late that the peak for the season had been passed. Prior to recipts of the visible supply statement, however, the market was showing a good deal to ready absorption of wheat offerings here, the December delivery in particular.

Surprising continued meagerness of Chicago deliveries on December wheat contracts attracted special notice. Only 180,000 bushels all told were thus handed over here today, and the conclusion was drawn in various quarters that owners of wheat were thoroughly satisfied with their property. The circumstances were also taken to indicate that after the early movement of Argentine wheat is ended in demand. Meanwhile, though, the Liveryou wheat market today was relatively unresponsive to price upturns on this side of the Atlantic, notwithstanding Argentine reports of hot winds in the south.

Corn and oats were strengthened to-

Corn and oats were strengthened today by reports of prospective large export requirements, estimated as implying additional European purchases of 95,000,000 bushels of corn from the United States before April next.
Oats sold at new high prices for the scason. Advices were current that potential domestic feeding demand for corn is about equal to last season, there being more cattle on feed although fewer hogs, with relative prices favorable to feeding both of cattle and hogs. On the other hand, the forecast today pointed to cold weather likely to hasten the movement of the corn

The pace of trading slackened on the decline, and selling at no time appeared panicky. Total sales aggregated 4,479,500 shares, the lowest total for a full session since election. The Associated Press average of 20 industrials was depressed 1.71 points, while the 20 rails eased a small fraction.

New York, December 3.—(4)—The stock market was confronted with a heavy accumulation of week-end selling orders today, in contrast to the heavy buying of recent Mondays, and liquidation continued fairly general throughout the day, carrying most issues down 1 to 15 points. The bulls staged a vigorous rally in the last hour, which succeeded in diminishing many losses and wiping out a few. A Pictures, Standard Milling and Beech-Nut Packing touched new peaks in ex-treme gains of about 6 to 10 points.

B. & O. Hits New Record. The selling was a continuation of the profit-taking that set in late last week, when the federal reserve statement and the return to 10 per cent call money gave the bears considerable cheer. cheer. The movement was intensified by expectation of a heavy increase in stock exchange member loans, as of November 30, but few had anticipated the unheard-of increase of $511,923, 202, which was announced after the close, bringing the total to the record figure of 6,391,644,264.

The stock exchange total, which includes more sources than the federal reserve compilation, is more than $1,000,000,000,000 greater than the record reserve figure announced last week, and is an increase of more than 50 per cent over the exchange total as of November 30, 1927, when member loans broke through the $4,000,000,000 mark for the first time.

Money Hits 10 Per Cent.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and mounted to 10 per cent before the close. Only three times previously this year has that rate been reached—July 2, October 1 and last Friday. The federal reserve bank announced a further drain on credit in the form of a United States treasury call for $31,548,300 tomorrow. Bankers expect further earmarkings of gold for foreign.

3. At times American importers wish to place their orders well in advance of the date of shipment, particularly when goods must be manufactured abroad to meet a seasonal domestic demand. By using an Import Letters of Credit, the importer assures the foreign manufacturer that payment will be made when the merchandise is shipped and there is never a question of the acceptance of such orders for future delivery.

AN INDEPENDENT AUDIT is to be regarded always as the means to valuable advice from the auditor or auditing firm.

Auditing

Too often, auditing service ends with the report of the financial condition of (name) as of (date).

Auditors should be equipped—and should be employed—to offer recommendations in connection with method, policies, financing, etc.; to furnish comparative statistics intelligently prepared; to point out how mistakes and waste may be eliminated, and pitfalls avoided.

Of course, every audit should be a Detailed Audit. But whether it be Detailed, Semi-Detailed or Balance Sheet, it can, and should be made to, serve as the basis, not only of the financial report, but also for constructive help.

With the business man's appreciative understanding of this help, and the cooperation of progressive Public Accountants, Auditing becomes Constructive and offers its greatest value.

Sugar.

New York, December 3.—Raw sugar was steady and unchanged today at 3.96 for spots duty paid, with a sale reported of 23,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment.

After showing early declines of two to four points, raw futures rallied on covering by December shorts and buying of the later deliveries by houses with trade and Cuban connections, with final prices three points higher to two points lower. The market opened one point higher to three points lower, but soon weakened under liquidation and selling by houses with European connections. The steadiness of spots, however, discouraged aggressive selling, and after net losses of 4wo to four points prices closed at the best of the session, with December showing the maximum gain. Approximate sales 46,300 tons. December 1929, 2.42.

Stock Letters.

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—To-day's market stood up fairly well in the face of 10 per cent call money, a rally developing in the afternoon although prices closed in most cases well below the high.

Bails were again strong performers. Baltimore & Ohio acting particularly well. We continue to feel that profit possibilities in relation to risk involved are greater in this group than any other in the market, and call special attention to B. & O., Pennsylvania, Missouri Facific. New York, December 3.—(Special.)—Cotton is under the shadow of the forthcoming bureau report, uncertainty with regard to which has induced extensive liquidation and at the same time served to check the reviving speculative interest recently in evidence. The market consequently has continued to sag and may drift somewhat lower. Meantime, however, the trade is absorbing the bulk of the conference. be with a few atocks very strong. Self-movements still do not seem to have carry through despite the fact that money reached 10 per cent and that mg the day banks called about $45,-

One factor that aided the afternoon rally was the report that the president's message to congress would be favorable on general business and would also favor railroad consolidation legislation. One of the leaders on the advance was Baitimore and Ohio, which on heavy transactions got above 125 for a gain of over five points with a rumor of increased dividend accompanying the advance. Wright Aeroplane after selling at 2161; this morning rallied sharply to 274. National Dairy Products. Warner Brothers Pictures and several other industrials were strong all during the day. Chrysler Motors met a great deal of resistance between 125 and 127. Its action may be irregular for a time longer, but we still believe it will be a $200 stock next year. The market in general still shows strong resistance powers and there is as yet no indication of any bad break in the offing.

Irregularity nevertheless should continue this month, with possibly higher money rates. Special issues can work higher, particularly some of the rails, like New York Central and Northern Pacific but the general industrial list should be quite uneven.

Apparently no consideration was given the large shipments from America today, no to the cheerful advices from the cotton textile markets, or to the bullish fundamentals of the situation. Evidently there was a large speculative long interest in the market, but the extensive liquidation of late has probably improved the technical position materially.
